transit station artists from Scotland, London, Berlin, Paris, Warsaw show their work on an international journey of the arts through Europe transit station sculpture a system in the space of a journey: the coordinates are set by locations, artists and audience transit station on tour artists are travelling; they are transporting their work from London to Berlin to Edinburgh to Warsaw to . . .

experience is change, creativity is change, perception is change:
the journey is the constant
